Notification under Section 309B(1)(c) of the Securities and Futures Act 2001, as modified or amended from time to time (the “SFA”) – Unless otherwise stated in the applicable Final Terms or Pricing Supplement (as applicable) in respect of the Securities, all Securities issued or to be issued under the Programme shall be capital markets products other than prescribed capital markets products (as defined in the Securities and Futures (Capital Markets Products) Regulations 2018 of Singapore) and Specified Investment Products (as defined in MAS Notice SFA 04-N12: Notice on the Sale of Investment Products and MAS Notice FAA-N16: Notice on Recommendations on Investment Products).

CREDIT RISK OF THE ISSUER AND GUARANTOR

As with any security, you are relying on the Issuer (and the Guarantor if there is one) to pay you the sums due under the Securities. Therefore you are running a credit risk against the Issuer or Guarantor, if applicable. Accordingly, if the Issuer (and Guarantor if applicable) becomes insolvent, then you may receive less than the amount you were expecting and possibly receive nothing. Any such payments on insolvency may not be paid for a substantial amount of time. You should also note that any changes to the credit standing (including the credit rating) of the Issuer and any Guarantor could adversely affect the price and value of the Securities. A credit rating reflects the creditworthiness of the Issuer and/or Guarantor (if applicable) in the view of the rating agency and is not a recommendation to buy, sell or hold securities, and it may be subject to revision or withdrawal at any time by the assigning rating organisation. Each rating should be evaluated independently of any other rating. The creditworthiness of the Issuer does not affect or enhance the likely performance of the investment other than the ability of the Issuer to meet its obligations. Further, any par principal amount payment obligation will only be available at the maturity of the Securities and will not apply if the Securities are sold by you or redeemed early by the Issuer before its scheduled maturity date. The attention of prospective investors is drawn to the summary risk factors described below and the “Risk Factors” beginning on or about page 38 of the Base Prospectus (as defined in “Final Documentation” below) of the Issuer to which this term sheet relates.

USD Callable Fixed Coupon Notes

Fee Disclosure	The purchaser or, if applicable, introducing broker of these Securities acknowledges and agrees that it shall fully disclose to its clients the existence, nature and amount of any commission or fee paid or payable to it by Nomura (including, if applicable, by way of discount) as required in accordance with laws and regulations applicable to it, including any legislation, regulation and/or rule implementing the Markets in Financial Instruments Directive as updated (2014/65/EU) (MiFIDII), or as otherwise may apply in any non-EEA jurisdictions
Pricing	The offer or Issue Price may be more than the market value of the Securities as at the Issue Date, and the price, if any, at which Nomura International plc, any Manager or any other person is willing to purchase the Securities in secondary market transactions is likely to be lower than the Issue Price. In addition, whilst the proprietary pricing models of Nomura International plc are based on well recognised financial principles, other market participants' pricing models may differ or produce a different result.
Terms of Sale	Please note that any sale of the Securities pursuant to this termsheet shall be to the Purchaser on a principal-to-principal basis for the Purchaser's own account and shall be based upon, and shall incorporate, the provisions set out in the "Important Notice to Purchasers" attached hereto.

Secondary Market	While Nomura International plc or other Nomura broker dealer entity ("Nomura Entity") intends under normal market conditions, to indicate prices for the Notes there can be no assurance as to the prices that will be indicated and no assurance that Nomura Entity will offer to purchase such Notes. Due to the impact of sales commissions, issuing costs and hedging, etc. the offer price of a security may be more than its fair market value. These factors and any exit fees built into the security will impact its price in the secondary market.
Singapore Qualifying Debt Securities	Purchasers of the Notes agree that where any interest, discount income, prepayment fee, redemption premium or break cost ("Relevant Income") from any Notes which constitute "qualifying debt securities" for Singapore income tax purposes is derived by a person who is not tax resident in Singapore and who carries on any operation in Singapore through a permanent establishment in Singapore, the tax exemption for qualifying debt securities shall not apply if the non-resident person acquires the Notes using funds from that person's operations through the Singapore permanent establishment. Any person whose income (including Relevant Income) is not exempt from Singapore income tax is required to declare such income in a return of income under the Income Tax Act 1947 of Singapore.
General Risks	Each purchaser of these Securities is responsible for its own independent analysis of and decision regarding all matters relating to this transaction and any applicable laws and regulations and the risks involved in entering into this transaction as they relate to the purchaser's own circumstances. Each purchaser should consult its own counsel, accountants and other advisors on these and all matters it deems relevant. This transaction is suitable only for, and should be made only by, an investor who has no need for liquidity and understands and can afford the financial and other risks of this transaction.

ANNEX A (RISK FACTORS)

Prospective investors of these Securities should carefully consider the following information in conjunction with other information contained in this termsheet and the Base Prospectus before purchasing the Securities.

The attention of prospective investors is drawn to the section(s) headed “Risk Factors” in the Base Prospectus. The termsheet and the Base Prospectus however cannot disclose all of the risks and other significant aspects of the Securities and investment decisions should not be made solely on the basis of these risk factors since the information contained herein cannot serve as a substitute for independent individual advice which is tailored to the requirements, investment objectives, experience, knowledge and circumstances of a prospective investor.

PRODUCT SPECIFIC RISKS

Issuer Call Option: The Notes may be called by the Issuer at PAR on any Issuer Call Redemption Date. Accordingly, upon such exercise of such Issuer Call, you will not receive any further upside value in the Notes following such Issuer Call.

Listing related risk: An application will be made for the listing of the Notes on the Luxembourg Euro MTF. No assurances can be given as to whether the Notes will be, or will remain, listed on Luxembourg Euro MTF. If the Notes fail to or cease to be listed on Luxembourg Euro MTF, certain investors may not be able to invest in, or continue to hold or invest in, the Notes.

GENERAL RISKS

Fluctuation of value of investment

The value of investments, such as these Securities, and any income that may be paid from it, can go down as well as up and as such you may not get back the amount you initially invested. In some circumstances you may not receive any amount back from this investment. The value of the Securities is affected by a wide variety of investment risks. These include the following: valuation of the reference asset(s) (including market disruption events) – please also note Nomura does not perform any investigation or review of the reference asset(s) on behalf of any prospective investor in the securities; exchange rates, interest rates, inflation, yield, correlation, volatility, creditworthiness of the issuer, liquidity risk in the secondary market and leverage, path dependency, listing and legal and regulatory considerations.

Risks relating to Securities linked to or that reference any asset price source or financial benchmark

National and international initiatives (effective or yet to be implemented) relating to the reform of the regulation of indices, commodity, currency and other asset price sources and other forms of financial benchmarks (collectively, “Benchmarks”) may impact the value of the Securities and may force the Issuer to cease using a particular Benchmark (such as, without limitation, LIBOR or EURIBOR) as the underlying reference basis for the Securities which may result in adjustments to the terms of the Securities, a replacement of a Benchmark or termination of the Securities. The Terms and Conditions of the Securities contain a number of provisions allowing the Issuer or Calculation Agent to adjust or terminate Securities to take account of relevant events in relation to Benchmarks or their sponsor or administrator. The consequences of the Issuer taking such action(s) may be wide ranging and may adversely affect the Securities. In addition, future discontinuance of LIBOR or other interest rate benchmarks could have a material adverse effect on the value or liquidity of, and return on any Securities which reference LIBOR or other interest rate benchmarks.

Accordingly, investors should consult their own independent advisers and make their own assessment about the potential risks imposed by Benchmark reforms and investigations.

Return

The value of the Securities and any income that may be paid from them can go down as well as up and as such, at any point in time prior to and including the Maturity Date, the market value of the Securities may be substantially less than the amount initially invested. A possible outcome is that the return on this investment is very low and depending on the Terms and Conditions of the Securities could be zero in some cases. The value of the Securities is affected by a wide variety of investment risks, which include, but are not limited to, the following: interest rates, exchange rates, creditworthiness of the Issuer and the Reference Entity, liquidity, leverage embedded in the Security and market sentiment.

Conflicts

The Issuer may establish, maintain, adjust or unwind its hedge positions with respect to the Securities. Any hedge positions are the proprietary trading positions of the Issuer. The Issuer may hedge itself via Nomura International plc or another entity within the Nomura group of companies (“Nomura Group”). Hedging activities could affect valuation. Further, due to the diverse nature of the business activities of the Nomura Group (“Nomura”) we may have business connections with respect to the reference asset(s). Such activities may cause or lead to potential conflicts of interest. For reasons of client confidentiality and the management of its own business, Nomura will not disclose any such activities or information.

Advice

Nomura is not providing you with any advice regarding this Security, or acting in any form of fiduciary capacity. Therefore you should only decide to purchase this Security after careful consideration together with your legal, tax, accounting, financial and other advisers. Certain risks that may apply to this Security are summarised below, any number of these risks could apply at once which could increase their effect on the value of the Securities. This is not a complete and comprehensive list of risks. A holding in the security is not equivalent to owning any reference asset(s) to which the security relates. Please refer to the Final Documentation of this security. If you do not already have such documentation, a copy is available upon request from your usual advisor or please contact the relevant Dealer.

All persons should seek such advice as they consider necessary from their professional advisors, legal, tax or otherwise, without reliance on Nomura.

Suitability of the Securities

An investment in this product such as the Securities involves substantial risks (including market risk, liquidity risk and the risk that the Issuer will be unable to satisfy its obligations under the Securities) and is only suitable for counterparties who have the knowledge and experience in financial and business matters necessary to enable them to evaluate the risks. You should ensure that you understand the nature of all these risks before making a decision to invest in the Securities. You should consider carefully whether the Securities are suitable for you in light of your experience, objectives, financial position and other relevant circumstances.

Issue Price

The Issue Price in respect of the Securities may not be an accurate reflection of the market value of such Securities as at the Issue Date. The price at which the Securities may be sold in secondary market transactions may be lower than the Issue Price.

Early Sale Risk

Any participation in the Securities should be viewed as a medium to long term “hold until maturity” investment. The value of the Securities may go up or down during their lifetime and consequently if you are seeking to sell your Securities prior to the maturity date you run the risk of losing part or all of the value of your initial investments.

Liquidity Risk

There can be no assurance as to how the Securities will trade in the secondary market, whether there will be a secondary market or, if a secondary market exists whether such market will be sustainable or liquid or illiquid. You are therefore advised that the circumstances in which you may be able to realise your investment may be limited. Securities issued under the Programme will be new securities which are not widely distributed and for which there will be no active trading market. If the Securities are traded after their initial issuance, they may trade at a discount to their initial offering price, depending upon, amongst other factors, currency exchange rates, prevailing interest rates, the market for similar securities, general economic conditions and the financial condition of the Issuer. Accordingly, there is no assurance as to the development or liquidity of any trading market for the Securities. You are therefore advised that the circumstances in which you may be able to realise your investment prior to its maturity may be limited. In such circumstances, investors who no longer wish to hold their investment in the Securities would have to hold the Securities until they mature.

Where it is specified that an application has been made for admission of the Securities to a stock exchange, no assurance can be given that the Securities will in fact be listed or traded or, if the Securities are so listed or traded, that such listing or trading will be maintained and whether there will be a secondary market for any Securities so listed or traded. If the Securities are not listed or traded on any stock exchange, pricing information for such Securities may be more difficult to obtain, and the liquidity and market prices of such Securities may be adversely affected.

The liquidity of the Securities may also be affected by restrictions, if any, on offers and sales of the Securities in some jurisdictions. In any case, due to the relative complexity and lower liquidity of the Securities if compared to more conventional financial instruments such as shares, comparatively larger spreads between bid and ask quotes should be expected.

There can be no assurance that a secondary market in the Securities shall exist or at which prices will be made. The price given, if any, may be affected by many factors including, but not limited to, the remaining term of the Securities, the performance of the underlyings, interest rates, fluctuations in exchange rates and credit spreads.

Potential Losses

You may sustain substantial losses on the Securities if the market conditions move against your positions. It is in your interest to understand fully the impact of the market movements, in particular the extent of profit and loss you would be exposed to when there is an upward or downward movement in the relevant rates. Your position on the Securities may be liquidated at a loss and you will then be liable for any resulting deficit in your account.

Early Redemption of the Securities as a result of changes in taxation

In the event that the Issuer or the Guarantor (if any) would be obliged to increase the amounts payable in respect of any Securities due to any withholding or deduction for or on account of, any present or future taxes, duties, assessments or governmental charges of whatever nature imposed, levied, collected, withheld or assessed, the Issuer may redeem all outstanding Securities in accordance with the Final Documentation.

Event Risk

There may be adjustments to the terms and conditions of the Securities (including the early redemption of the Securities) due to events such as but not limited to, market disruptions, index modifications, index disruption, price source disruption, trading suspension, hedging disruption, and change in taxation laws, sanctions and non-permitted holder events, as set out in the Final Documentation.

Early Redemption under the provisions of the Final Documentation

In the event of an early redemption for taxation reasons, an event of default, a disruption to the underlying asset or such other events described in the Final Documentation, the Issuer may redeem the Securities and, if permitted by applicable law, pay the holders of the Securities in accordance with the relevant provisions in the Final Documentation.

Potential conflicts of interest

In the ordinary course of their business, Nomura may effect transactions for their own account or for the account of their customers. In conducting such business Nomura is not obliged to take into account the circumstances of any counterparty or act in a manner which is favourable to them. Such activity may, or may not affect the value of the securities, and potential investors should be aware that a conflict may arise.

You should note that potential and actual conflicts of interest might arise from the different roles played by Nomura in connection with the Securities. Nomura may be a Swap Counterparty to the Issuer to hedge the Issuer's market risk under the Securities. Nomura and its affiliates are also the Arranger, the Seller, the Dealer, and the Calculation Agent, in respect of the Securities. Nomura Securities Co. Ltd. may also act as a Swap Guarantor. You should seek independent advice as you deem appropriate to evaluate the risk of this potential conflict of interest. Although the Issuer, the Swap Counterparty and the Swap Guarantor owe no duty or responsibility to you to avoid such conflicts, should any conflict of interests arise Nomura will take reasonable steps to protect the interests of all affected parties and in doing so will act in a fair and commercially reasonable manner.

Settlement Risk

If a change occurs in the settlement rules of (i) the clearing system through which the Securities are cleared or (ii) the country where the exchange or clearing system for any of shares used to calculate the underlying(s) is located due to emergencies or special situations, market conditions or legal holidays, settlement may be temporarily prevented or delayed.

Inflation Risk

Inflation may cause any real rate of return under the Securities to decrease.

Currency Risk

Where the Securities involve a currency or currencies other than the investor's reference currency, changes in rates of exchange may have an adverse effect on the value of the Securities.

Interest Rate Risk

Changes in rates of interest may have an adverse effect on the value of the Securities.

Risk-excluding or risk-limiting transactions

Prospective investors may not rely upon being able to enter into transactions, which may exclude or limit loss exposure to the Securities during the term of the Securities. The possibility of entering into risk-excluding or risk-limiting transactions depends in particular on market conditions and the relevant underlying circumstances. Holders may be able to enter into such transactions only at an unfavorable market price resulting in an additional loss for such holders.

Prospective investors intending to purchase Securities to hedge the market risk associated with investing in the underlying should be aware of the difficulties associated therewith. For example, the value of the Securities may not exactly correlate with the underlying.

Determinations by the Calculation Agent

The Calculation Agent shall have no responsibility to investors of the Notes for good faith errors or omissions in the Calculation Agent's calculations and determinations as provided in the Conditions, except such as may result from its own wilful default, negligence or bad faith. The calculations and determinations of the Calculation Agent shall be made in accordance with the Conditions and shall, in the absence of manifest error, be final, conclusive and binding on the investors of the Notes. Investors in the Notes shall not be entitled to make any claim against the Calculation Agent or the Issuer.

Capacity

Each purchaser of the Securities is responsible for determining for itself whether it has the legal power, authority and right to purchase such Securities.
